Principal Christine Carey (PCC)

PCC: We have a student council and the student council has been very active in collecting people’s views.

And there are a lot of students who are in favour of this change.

For students to protest is fine. We live in a democracy and it is important that they can see that their voice can be heard. But then there comes a point where they have to say "no, that's finished, now we must get on with our learning".
